OUR DEDICATION

Mr. Dietz,

We, the Class of 1969, hereby express our heartfelt gratitude to you, our class advisor. Your advice and encouragement have helped to guide us throughout our high school years. We thank you.

It is imperative that you, the students of the graduating class of 1969, through your education at Bedford High School and in your future endeavors, be they education or otherwise, sincerely attempt to serve the best interests of your country and the world community. This can be accomplished through the desire to serve others, by reading widely, by participating in constructive activities, and by recognizing propaganda and indoctrination as separate from factual information. By the application of self-control and the exercising of positive action directed toward the betterment of all, each of you will have given back something of real value to society in return for the wonderful opportunities which our present-day society has extended to you.

John Glenn
Superintendent of Schools

To the Class of 1969

As young adults you are now entering a new era in which you will be participating in all types of world affairs. You will be given a greater sense of contributing, belonging, and controlling. Your ideas will be solicited and used. There is great hope for our democracy if your forces are bent toward forging a greater country for all.

Ado Commito
Assistant Superintendent of Schools

FACULTY

To Mr. Gillespie:

No organization likes to lose a man of high ideals and unimpeachable integrity. We do not like the fact that we are losing you, a man who epitomizes these virtues. We can, however, continue working towards the goals you have set for us, hoping that our achievement of those goals will repay you for your years of devotion and service to Bedford High School.

To The Class of 1969

From learning laboratories to lunar missions... Raytheon makes things happen.

A high school student dials a lesson and learns at his own pace... A housewife prepares a meal in minutes in her microwave oven... A submarine listens for intruders in the deep... A seismograph crew explores for oil beneath an African desert.

A radar scans the skies and a supersonic missile stands ready if needed... A new petrochemical plant takes form against a Louisiana sky... A phone conversation is carried by microwaves across the Andes to a remote area of Ecuador... A tiny computer guides an Apollo spacecraft from orbit to on-target splashdown.

These are but a few of the results of Raytheon technology at work around the world.

Today, Raytheon is an international science-based company.

employing over 50,000 people. Common threads of technology run through and weave together the company's diverse and growing businesses in both government and commercial markets.

At Raytheon, our future is both exciting and challenging. We hope that your future holds a full measure of excitement and challenge too. Perhaps you will find it with us.

RAYTHEON

Congratulations to the class of 1969 from Raytheon's Bedford Laboratories. Whatever your immediate plans — college, armed forces, or a job — you may want to consider a long-term future here with us, where you can continue your education, in our part-time accredited college program, in conjunction with your career development.
